"Soul Mate" Flees Forgiving Husband Now Wants Divorce

Mrs. Franzen Again Runs Away From Her Home in Madison, Spends Night in Racine, on Way to Canada, Belief.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 11.—Reports that Philip Franzen was reconciled to his wife despite the latter's escapade with Pierre Ather, Highland Park, chemist, were denied here today. It was learned that Mrs. Franzen had again left Madison and it was reported that she had gone to Racine.

Last night Mrs. Franzen said she would not contest a divorce action if one is started by her husband. Franzen has not pressed his efforts to have withdrawn the warrant charging Ather with grand larceny. Yesterday he visited the district attorney and Judge Hoppmann, of the superior court in an effort to have the document quashed. He told the officials that he believed his wife was repentant and that she would remain with him and their adopted child.

MRS. FRANZEN SPENDS NIGHT IN RACINE
Racine, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Philip N. Franzen, Madison, spent last night in Racine and left this morning on an interstate car for Kenosha, presumably en route for Chicago. She was accompanied by a Chicago newspaperman.

Mrs. Franzen's identity was established at a local restaurant when she tried to cash a $400 check. Later she went to a bank for the same purpose and was identified by the newspaperman who is an acquaintance of one of the officials of the bank.

When approached by a reporter, she refused to talk, declaring she did not know him. She then hurried away in connection with her trip to St. Louis with Mrs. Philip Franzen of Madison, "has not been served."

"I don't think they will ever come back to Highland Park," said Mrs. Franzen, from whom the authors leased a furnished apartment. The landlady was today inspecting the premises and she said she found her property practically intact.

"But they owe me $30 rent," she added.
She said she had had no word from her tenants since Mrs. Ather left the place last Saturday.

MANY JOBLESS ARE NOW FINDING WORK

(By Associated Press.)
Toledo, Jan. 11.—Marked improvement in the employment situation as compared with a week ago was reported when representative businessmen and manufacturers gathered today at the request of Mayor Cornell Schreiber after having demanded employment of the mayor.

One week ago the number of unemployed in Toledo was given as 47,000. A careful checking of lists today showed that the number now is less than 15,000.

The automobile manufacturing plant of the Willys Overland company, it was announced, is preparing to resume production about February 1. Several other large factories which have been wholly or partially idle also have set that date for reopening.

Ex-Soldiers Form League to Defend Kansas Against Activities of Nonpartisans

(By Associated Press.)
Salina, Kas., Jan. 11.—Members of the American Defense League of Kansas, a state organization of former service men, formed here last night to combat the activities of the Nonpartisan League, today set about planning the contest they propose to wage against the league headed by A. C. Townsend.

League Not to Debate.
An announcement of a program was forthcoming. O. A. Kirtman, commander of the American Legion post, who was elected president of the organization, let it be known that the body would be financed through popular subscription and that the members would not debate the issues with Nonpartisan league officers.

N. P. Lines Stiffened.
While preparations were being made for the contest, leaders of the Nonpartisan League were stiffening their lines and citing the statement of Townsend made at a mass meeting last night that he proposed to continue operations until the league campaign had been carried to completion in Kansas.

On both sides, leaders were emphatic in declaring that the contest would be along orderly lines and that there would be no violence.

Tobacco to Be Graded and Market Established Under Government Rules

Crop That Now Is the Farmer's Greatest Gamble to Have Standard Grades and Market Quotations Be Possible—Government Takes Long Step Forward.

Tobacco is one crop which must be marketed on a gamble. In an investigation by the Gazette of the conditions here in Wisconsin and elsewhere this year the situation was found to be the same. Marketing was either by auction as in the burley districts of Kentucky or by private field sale generally as in Rock and other counties here in Wisconsin. The same difficulties are found in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. It is the same gamble with the farmer generally holding the poorest hand.

The Gazette has made a rather wide investigation and has found no real possibility of relief from the growers organizations or the farmers co-operating. Eventually the last buyer dictates the price.

Relief in Sight.
But there seems to be relief in sight now and it comes through the grading and standardizing of tobacco just as wheat and other grains are standardized and a regular market quotation made possible.

In order to assist in placing the marketing of tobacco upon a more business-like basis, the United States Department of Agriculture is about to begin investigations which will lead to the establishing of tobacco grades applicable throughout the entire industry. Though tobacco ranks fourth among the crops of the United States, it returns more than $1,000,000,000 a year in agricultural wealth to the nation, and more than $200,000,000 in annual revenue to the government.

It is marketed in a manner which produces of less important crops would regard as a short cut to financial ruin.

Sales System Bad.
For this condition, the specialists of the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, blame primarily the auction system of sales in certain sections and the private contract system.

Women Can't Serve on Circuit Court Juries

Women will not be on any jury of a Rock county circuit court case during the coming year, it was learned today.

There is no question but what women are fully qualified under the law to sit as jurors under the provisions of the nineteenth amendment.

The attorney general, W. J. Morgan, last September ruled that women not only have the privilege of serving on a jury but are liable to summons.

The jury list for Rock county was drawn last September for the year. No women were drawn on this list, according to Clerk of Court Jesse Earle, today.

Grimm's Attitude Unknown.
The attitude of Judge Grimm on having women sit as jurors is not fully known.

Before women could serve on a long case, however, extensive arrangements would have to be made for their care. If even the jury were mixed, men and women, the situation under the laws would be hopeless, say county court officials. A jury sworn on a case cannot be separated or released from a guard until the verdict is returned. If the case is important enough to

"Deport Lord Mayor" Says State Secretary to Department of Labor

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 11.—Deportation of Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who arrived at Newport News last week as a stowaway and without passport, was requested of the department of labor today by Acting Secretary of State Davis.

Mr. Davis quoted as authority the proclamation issued by President Wilson on August 8, 1918, designating the secretary of state as the one who shall decide whether an alien coming under passport regulations should be admitted or denied admission to the country.

O'Callaghan is to appear Thursday before the commission of the committee of one hundred investigating conditions in Ireland. This was announced today by the commission, which moved up the resumption of his hearings from next Monday to Thursday. O'Callaghan has been paroled by the department of labor pending a final decision as to his admissibility to the United States.

Fire Destroys Valuable U. S. Census Records

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 11.—Government officials were still at sea today attempting to estimate the loss resulting from a fire in the department of commerce building last night, which destroyed many original records of every census taken since the first in 1790 except that of 1920. In addition to the damage by fire, the records today were submerged in water that rose to the basement of the building by more than 20 inches of hose which daily brought the conflagration under control.

There are no duplicates of the destroyed records and the loss was declared probably the worst of its kind in the government's history.

YOUNG LIKELY TO BE SPEAKER IN HOUSE

State Legislators to Hold Caucuses Tonight, in Session Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison, Jan. 11.—Capitol politics reached full stride at noon today with the arrival of practically all of the legislators for tonight's caucuses. Leaders expect all but two of the republican house members to be here before evening, and all the senators.

Riley S. Young, Darlen, speaker in the assembly, declared today that a careful canvass convinced him he would be chosen republican candidate for speaker on the first ballot tonight. There are three other avowed candidates in the field: William Olson, Monroe; is expected to have the administration backing. Wallace Ingalls, Racine lawyer, has opened headquarters and is making an active bid. Frank H. Hanson, Manitowish, former senator, who returns this year as a member of the house, is also in the field.

Both houses will meet at noon to-day to organize. It is improbable that reading of the governor's message will be reached before Thursday morning.

EVENING WEDDINGS BANNED, WOMEN'S CLOTHES IS REASON

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 11.—Evening wedding services at the Calvary Episcopal church here are banned; under an order of the Rev. Van Etten's New Year's sermon, when in a review of the things he had seen and heard during the year, he held more attention to evening gowns worn by women.

He commented on the "lack of decorum often manifested," and said that some of the gowns were "every body's business."

Both houses will meet at noon to-day to organize. It is improbable that reading of the governor's message will be reached before Thursday morning.

COMMITTEE ABANDONS PLANS FOR INAUGURATION

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 11.—The committee of the Washington inauguration committee, announced abandonment of all plans for a celebration, in accordance with Mr. Harding's wishes.

Time the Economy.
The great preparations made by the inauguration committee, which meant a splendid inaugural ball and mardigras display, as well as the greed of the hotel proprietors and the excessive profiteering prices demanded by the government houses, were private residences, led Mr. Harding to take this step, it is declared. The expenses to the government and the states, the latter for the transportation of troops, would have reached a million dollars.

Will Not Build Grandstand.
In the opinion of Senator Knox, chairman of the joint committee of congress, the plans to build a grandstand on the capitol plaza to cost about $50,000 would be given up. An announcement of the president-elect's decision came only a few hours after congress, through action of the house, completed enactment of a bill appropriating $200,000 for expenses incident to the inauguration.

In the usual course of procedure the bill would go to the White House on Tuesday, but the suggestion, made today by Senator Jones in either the senate or house might move to reconsider the vote of their body and thereby withdraw the bill.

Buffaloes Running Wild on Isle in Great Salt Lake Are to Be Extirminated

Salt Lake City, Jan. 11.—Two hundred and thirty-five buffaloes which are running wild on Antelope Island, outside of Great Salt Lake, will be exterminated, beginning today, by hunters from Los Angeles and elsewhere who will pay $200 a head for every bison they kill, according to J. W. Thornley, president of the Buffalo Island Livestock company. Mr. Thornley said it has been decided to make a clean sweep of the animals. The reason assigned for granting permits to kill is that the company desires to purchase to graze on the island.

Pioneers Bring Bison.
The buffaloes were brought by Utah pioneers to this vicinity more than 20 years ago. They committed a deal of damage and the J. E. Dooly estate, which acquired the animals, decided to ship them to Antelope Island. In turn the Dooly estate leased the island and animals to the Buffalo Island Livestock company. The company wants $200 a head for the animals and, according to Mr. Thornley, they have received. As a consequence the company, to get value out of the animals must exact the $200 a head demanded from the hunters.

Bill Before Congress.
Recently Congressman Mays, of Utah, introduced a bill calling for an appropriation to pay $150 a head for the bison. Local interests opposed the bill. Local interests opposed the bill. Local interests opposed the bill.

To move the buffaloes Mr. Thornley asserted would be extremely risky work. It was knowledge of this fact, it is understood, which led Congressman Mays, in introducing the bill for the acquisition of the animals by the government to incorporate the plan to also purchase the island which he intended should become a sanctuary for the buffalo.

JOHNSON FIGHTS TO SAVE PRIMARY

California Senator Turns His Guns on Forces of Reaction.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California has declared war again. This time he is turning his guns "on the forces of reaction" which are aiming to eliminate the direct primary system and go back to the convention method of selecting party candidates. Mr. Johnson will go on the stump and carry his cause to the people directly in the various states where the assault on the primary is greatest—New York, Iowa, Indiana, and western states.

Senator Johnson sees in the attitude of Gov. Miller of New York and the utterances of other executives another attack on the primary system which he does not intend to pass without a fight. He has warm words of praise today for the recent speech of Charles Evans Hughes defending the primary system.

Calls It Brave Speech
"It was a brave speech for a man coming from New York to make," said the California senator as he went on to discuss the attitude of "reactions" in America, and said that the fight against the direct primary were successful it would eliminate progressivism altogether in American politics. With the removal of the direct primary system, a reaction to the convention method, Mr. Johnson believes politicians will be able to do about as they please.

Unquestionably some of the faults have been found in the primary system, but in the west where the nonpartisan league has captured the well-advised names of the old parties and turned them upside down, but in the efforts to cure such defects, the loss of the whole primary system of nominations have come to the fore. Modification and destruction, however, are two different things and the forces of reaction here are unwilling to admit that this is the irretrievable.

Is No Sudden Move

This is no sudden determination on the part of Hiram Johnson. He told the writer in Sacramento during the campaign that he was far from satisfied with the way many of the delegates to the Chicago convention last June disregarded the instructions of the people. He had little comment to make about the way Senator Harding was nominated, for the California senator was engaged in the business of helping to defeat the pro-league attitude of the Wilson administration. Now that the election is over and the republican party is in power, Mr. Johnson emerges with the cause of progressivism at his bosom, clinging desperately to it to be sure in an age which will admit it filled with powerful reactionary tendencies.

"It may be that reaction is so strong with us," he said, "that the fight against it will not succeed, but I intend to do everything in my power to remind the people of what the reactionaries are trying to do to them."

Sees No Reaction Mandate

Senator Johnson has accepted the result of the last election as a reaction of the people to the party in power and not as a mandate of the people to return to the reactionary ways, and it is this viewpoint which he will maintain. He has no question of reaction are actively under consideration. In his statement, Mr. Johnson speaks of the "bitter, concerted movement against labor" as an indication of the reaction of the people to the party in power.

The California senator, who is especially friendly to the cause of labor, has been heard from when anti-strike legislation comes before the senate this week. The so-called group of "irreconcilables" which has remained a unit in opposition to the cause of the conservative eastern republicans part company with some of the western progressives; but there is a chance that Senator Harding may face a new "battleground" before long and the opening of the fight by Senator Johnson on the direct primary system may be taken as an augury of further championing of progressive measures.

Harding's Main Line

Senator Harding himself has not been counted as a conservative, but the word from Marion both before and after the election is that Mr. Harding himself shows an inclination toward social welfare legislation and the progressive wing of the party on several things which stand-patners would not. He will heartily support. How far he will lean toward the Johnson-Borah group, and how far he will follow the way of Denrose and eastern republicanism, is too early to conjecture. Mr. Harding himself has not waited for any cue but starts out to make his fight for progressivism—and he has selected the direct primary system as the first bulwark against reaction.

Atten-shun! New Chevrons For Non-Coms

On Jan. 1, 1921, brand new chevrons after the war is over and the ex-soldiers, sailors and marines doing duty in office guard mount.

The new chevrons to be worn by non-commissioned officers are of the old olive drab superimposed on a dark blue background. It is the first colorful touch, except division insignia and service stripes ever allowed on the O. D. uniform of the enlisted man.

How did chevrons come about? The buck private who has more than his share of detail will tell you the chevron marks came from the design of the raters on a roof. A sergeant rated a billet with three raters, a corporal with two raters and the poor "buck" had no raters at all, having to put up with "pup" tents.

The chevron now comes over to the right arm and is only worn on this arm. The first sergeant wears more raters than ever. He has got more "ginsaws" which the army calls "lozenge" and which are "raters" and below that, representing grades of technical rank.

TOBACCO IS TO BE GRADED BY U. S. RULE

In other localities. Under the former method loose piles of tobacco to be sold are placed on the floor of a warehouse and examined by the prospective buyers. The tobacco is not graded, nor does the owner have much opportunity to describe the merits of his product. The auctioneer then offers the tobacco for sale and the buyers are practically in a position to obtain the tobacco for any price they choose to pay.

Sold Privately by Some.

In the latter case, the tobacco is sold privately by growers who usually have an indefinite idea of market prices, to buyers who are fully informed. The sales frequently are made on the farm and confirmed by contracts that are more binding on the seller than on the buyer. The sale often is made before the tobacco is harvested.

At the time of the transaction the tobacco may be so far from being in a marketable condition that even the buyer is unable to determine its value, in which case the farmer usually gets what the buyer estimates to be a safe price or chooses to offer.

Farmer Liable to Lose

In a bulletin published by the Massachusetts Experiment Station, it is stated that "under the contract method of sale, the farmer has all to lose, with no corresponding gain; the buyer, little or nothing." The same statement would apply equally as well to the "auction system," the department specialists say.

No Basis for Valuation.

Because of lack of grades, the tobacco producer has no basis for determining if he is receiving a reasonable price for his product. There is no basis for comparison between the prices paid in one community and those paid elsewhere. Quotations of one market usually mean little in other markets, for they are not based upon recognized standards of quality.

In October, the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture held hearings in a number of cities for the purpose of discussing with tobacco growers, merchants, dealers, bankers, warehousemen and others interested in the industry, tentative regulations for warehousing tobacco under the provisions of the United States Warehouse Act. These hearings were attended by numerous representatives of the tobacco industry generally and considerable interest was shown in the bureau's work.

Approved the Plan.

At first, there was an attitude of skepticism regarding the benefits to be derived from the warehousing of tobacco under the provisions of the warehouse act. Doubt was expressed that the bureau would be able to devise satisfactory tobacco standards, but in every instance, before the end of the hearing, the bureau's intention to take immediate action in carrying out its plans to place the marketing of tobacco upon a sound basis, was approved.

Under the provisions of the United States Warehouse Act, the bureau of Agriculture is authorized to license warehouses for the storage of cotton, grain, flax seed, wool, and tobacco. The chief purpose of the act with respect to tobacco, is to establish a system of warehouses in which tobacco may be safely stored and through which the industry can more easily be financed and tobacco more advantageously marketed. The act is designed to provide a form of warehouse receipt which will be readily acceptable and widely negotiable as security for loans. The warehouseman, who is licensed to store tobacco, is required to protect the tobacco stored therein may be licensed.

Warehouse Storage.

The regulations under the act provide for inspection of the premises at irregular intervals, examinations of the commodities stored, and observation by the warehouseman of standards of business practice. The act more than 300 applications for warehouse licenses have been received by the Bureau of Markets, the majority of them during the last year. Producers and warehousemen are expected to appreciate the benefits to be derived from the warehouse act. The bureau's regulations for the warehousing of tobacco are in the hands of the department for approval and general distribution in the near future.

How soon tobacco grades will be recommended will depend upon the ability of the bureau to carry out its work with the limited funds at its command. The bureau has received many assurances of cooperation by the tobacco industry.

Bob Whipple Can Beat Claims of Juneau County

Juneau county's deputy sheriff had better stop boasting about being the first man to appoint a woman deputy sheriff in Wisconsin.

This is one distinction Rock county can claim. Back in January, 1917, when Robert O. Whipple took office as sheriff, he appointed as one of his deputies, Miss Mary Vhelein, clerk of the Beloit municipal court. Juneau's claim is just four years late.

The fact that Miss Whelan was never reappointed as a deputy and no other Rock county woman was ever chosen might form food for thought for women.

The Juneau dispatch said: "Juneau will have the first woman deputy sheriff in the state. It was learned, when Deputy Sheriff George W. Pratt announced he would appoint Mrs. Hall, his wife, under-sheriff. She will wear the badge and drive the official automobile," he said.

RAIL TRAFFIC CUT DOWN 50 PER CENT

Railroad passenger traffic is reported to be down to about 50 per cent of normal according to trainmen and ticket agents. The situation in industry is given as the cause. For this reason rumors that the Northwestern was going to put on a three and a half hour train between Madison and Chicago are denied. Such a train was contemplated two years ago, it is said here, but if anything is done at all, withdrawal of some trains might occur. The number of any nature contemplated now, it is said by local officials.

WHO GETS ARTICLES LOST AT P. O. HERE?

Numerous complaints about articles lost at the postoffice here are received by the local postal officials but in only occasional instances, it is pointed out to the owners, ever get their property back. Umbrellas and fountain pens are often carelessly left in the lobby of the building and are lost. But when they go back for them, it is said, they seldom find that the things have been turned in.

This does not seem to be so prevalent now, however, as it was when the postoffice were running full force. Then persons could forget their articles left in the building only ten minutes and returning find them gone for good, or worse.

Circus Men Lose Hope of Shocking Modern Public

Janesville women interested in censorship of things risqué and modern will have some work to do in event a big-time circus comes to this city the coming summer.

Pink tights that have adorned the graceful figures of circus bare-back riders and trapeze performers ever since a circus bill-board flared forth announcements of the "biggest show on earth," will be no more. They have been ruled out by the "censoring and innuendo" you ask.

Not a bit of it. Too tame! That is the answer.

Information has been given out by a representative of the combined Barnum and Ringling circus that tights are ruled out of the circus ring and stage. Says the representative: "People are up against something to shock the people who flock to the big tent."

The time is passed when staid men go miles to see a circus girl in pink tights. The stage with the modern chorus, the movies with their vamps, have stolen the circus stuff and beat it a mile.

It is impossible to interest the public that has been reared on styles of women of today in circus attire," explains the circus man. "Ornate costumes have taken the kick out of the circus stuff. You cannot shock the ticket buyers any more. Just the same, the costume will supplant the famed pink tights is not given out by the circus men doing advance work."

Chippewa Falls Plans Historical Pageant

Chippewa Falls.—A Chippewa Falls historical pageant is being planned for the first week of July. The committee in charge says no city in the northwest is richer in legend, history and story than the events connected with the growth and development of the first week of July. The time of Indian wars, the Indian lore about health-giving qualities of the water, the arrival of the early pioneer traders, the building of the first dam, the story of logging days and sawmills, the exciting days of the river scenes with lumberjacks and their bright colored mackinaws, and finally the transition to a city of manufacturing. Indians from the Couderay reservation will take part.

Class "A" Wisconsin Securities

Dated Jan. 15, 1921. Due Serially Jan. 15, 1924-1936

Interest payable semi-annually on Jan. 15 and July 15, at the Bank of Southern Wisconsin, Janesville, Wisconsin. Coupon Bonds registerable as to principal in denominations of $500, $200 and $100, redeemable at $102, and in reverse numerical order.

R. A. Eckstein Company, Inc., Milwaukee, Trustee.

Security--

The Fire-proof Blackhawk Apartment Building on the west side of East Milwaukee St., near North East St., Janesville, Wis., three stories and basement, brick, stone, steel, reinforced concrete; a most substantial construction throughout containing 22 apartments for which we have already had forty applications. The interior arrangement is ideal for comfort, convenience and privacy; in keeping with the beautiful exterior. Everything is most modern.

Location--

Considered the finest for an apartment of this class. The hill district has been the most popular residence section in Janesville for several years. Modern apartments and private residences which have been erected in this location have not been able to meet the demand and this condition of shortage will prevail for years to come. The present increasing population of Janesville will always supply more than the required number of tenants for this apartment.

Valuation--Income--

Our appraisers have estimated the entire property valuation at $129,000 taking into consideration the present valuations, the cost of improvements and taking conservative estimate of earnings, having deducted a liberal estimate for running expenses. The total annual earnings are estimated to exceed $16,500, approximately four times the greatest annual interest charge before any of the bonds have been paid.

Sinking Funds and Other Safe Guards--

Provision has been made for monthly deposits of one-twelfth of the amount required annually for payment of interest of the maturing bonds. The semi-annual reduction of the debt after three years out of the earnings is one of the strongest safe-guards of this issue. The title is guaranteed by R. A. Eckstein Company, Inc., of Milwaukee; the trustee certifies the identity of each bond. Ample Fire insurance is deposited to protect the bond holder against fire loss.

Recommendation--

Having purchased these bonds with our own funds we are prepared to recommend them to investors in large or small amounts. Janesville people have opportunity through this issue to buy bonds secured by Janesville property—an at home investment.

Have You a Job?

List it with the Chamber of Commerce—If you want a job do the same—Get together man and job!

Every person in Janesville having a job should list it with the Chamber of Commerce. Every man, out of employment, seeking work should have his name listed at the Chamber of Commerce Employment Bureau.

It costs nothing for either party to the job—the one who wants a job or the person who has a job for the man.

This is fine weather to do much of the out of door work usually put off until spring. Let us get the man who has a job to do in Janesville.

AUTO MEN PROPOSE PARKING RULES

Want Council to Act Soon—Buggs Again Named President.

Recommendation that the city council enact a pending ordinance relative to parking on Milwaukee street was made at the annual meeting of the Rock County Auto Trades association held at the Grand hotel Monday night. Election of officers was held.

Automobiles, if they are permitted to be parked on Milwaukee street, should only be permitted parallel with the curb, said Robert F. Buggs, president. He pointed out that the street is so narrow in parts that the presence of an automobile in the middle of the street is a dangerous and may result in severe accident and perhaps death. The particular danger is whenever the fire department is called out.

Under the present system, there is no room for motor cars to go through when trolleys approach. This was pointed out by Buggs. It was said to be most prevalent between Main and Bluff streets and Main and River streets.

New officers elected were: Robert F. Buggs, re-elected president; William H. Smith, re-elected vice president; E. A. O'Connell, re-elected treasurer; and Harry Silverthorn, re-elected director. The above constitute the board of directors.

The association will take up with the state highway commission the matter of placing a warning sign at the approach to Montrose bridge. It is reported a dangerous curve, especially at night.

It was announced by William O'Connell that black and yellow stripes will be painted on the poles between Belvidere and the county line at Brooklyn to designate the Black and Yellow trail to Yellowstone Park.

Blanchard; vocal solo, Mrs. Thwait; reading, Miss Curran; vocal music by American Legion quartet; dancing, "Highland Fling," by the Misses Hager; reading, Miss Nichols; songs and choruses by the Moonshine quartet.

After the program dancing will be in order and all are cordially invited to participate. Attendants will be on duty at the women's cloak rooms throughout the evening. Supper will be served during the evening. The local chapter of the Service Star Legion will meet at 7:30 sharp Wednesday evening at Library hall.

Lawyers Like to Have Cases Settled by Him

Privately, Says Grimm

Settlement of litigations out of court is the policy and aim of Judge George Grimm, is attracting attention among courts in districts other than in Wisconsin.

During the past term of court Judge Grimm was instrumental in bringing about settlement in more than half of the cases. As a result the county was saved some money.

As a common thing when a case is reached I ask the counsel whether they believe a case can be adjusted without a trial, said Judge Grimm. "And whether any overtures looking to that end have been made by either party, then whether both parties are willing to talk the matter over with me."

"Generally when a settlement is possible a full statement of contentions and viewpoints of both parties are made in the chambers of the court. In no case must the slightest suspicion of coercion on the part of the court enter the negotiation.

"Sometimes the attempt at settlement requires great patience and the bitterness existing between the contesting parties. The satisfaction of doing away with angry passions of the litigants and have them depart as friends is a private settlement of cases is a sacrifice of dignity—if so, then I am willing to sacrifice some of it and be satisfied with the good that is accomplished," declares Judge Grimm.

"Do the attorneys complain that the court is improperly interfering?" the judge was asked.

"My answer is no. I have not found the attorneys opposed to settlement, but to the contrary I am continually solicited by the attorneys to help bring about a settlement. The settlement is not a compromise in the ordinary sense of the word, but rather the settlements of the court."

MILTON JUNCTION PRIEST IS TO BE GIVEN MOTOR CAR

The Rev. James McGinty, who succeeded Rev. J. J. Roche, of the Holy Rosary church, Milwaukee, preached his first sermon at the morning service on Sunday. The congregation of the Holy Rosary church is planning to present Father Roche, who has taken up his duties as pastor of the church at Milton Junction, with an automobile in the near future as a testimonial.

SENATOR LENROOT TEARS AWAY THE VEIL
In the senate the junior member from Wisconsin has called the nation's attention to the criminal expenditure of money by the government at Uncle Shoa's where a plant to make nitrates from the air was started before the close of the war, but which has since been a dumping place for tax money through the refusal of the secretary of war to abide by the resolution to cease all construction on plants and camps.
Senator Lenroot has scathingly analyzed the waste and criminal negligence and demanded the punishment of the culprits. He will be backed by his constituents. The American Farm Bureau federation is also fighting against the government's program of continuing to sink money in Uncle Shoa's on the Tennessee river, and its representative, J. R. Howard, will be a leader in opposition to the further waste on this, the biggest graft of the war.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP FORUM.
In the organization of a Members' Forum of the Chamber of Commerce for the discussion of the array of questions which come up in the community from day to day and which at this time are many, it's another step in the making of a better city. The Chamber of Commerce as an organization must act through its membership. A Janesville there are over 700 members of that body, and if each would attend the meetings and give his opinion on the different questions arising would amount to a pretty safe referendum on any civic subject. It is all well enough to bring high class speakers from the outside, but when it comes right down to real business for the city, the citizens who make up the membership of the chamber of Commerce are the ones who can put a definite forward-looking and constructive program. That is what the membership is for.

FOREST PRESERVATION AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.
In the issue of the Gazette, Saturday, was a story of the frightful conditions in China. Here in a great area people are being wiped out from starvation. The original cause was flood, then followed drought, and then naturally crop failure and resultant starvation.
One of the first causes for the condition is the lack of forests to maintain the equilibrium of moisture. As we wipe out our forests and the food loss disappears we invite the same condition in America.
Reforestation is a necessity for the world because of its need for lumber, building material and for pulp for the making of paper. But it also needs forests for the salvation of the land itself and for protection against flood and drought.
Our great wastes of cutover lands, useless in any sections for agriculture, but capable of growing timber of pine and spruce, should be utilized for timber supply and not allowed to rot and idle and a menace from easily set fires and consequent damage to surrounding properties.
Over and over again the Gazette has discussed this question and it is gratifying that the national progress has taken the matter up with seriousness, and we may find something being done that will bring the desert back to production. It also expected that the legislature of the state will take some action definitely this winter.

A JEFFERSONIAN INAUGURAL.
Warren G. Harding, who yesterday was elected president of the United States by the electors meeting in the different states, has determined that there will be no great military display or any inaugural ball on March 4. It will be as simple as the occasion can be. In this time when there is a demand for economy on the part of the government and the whole effort of congress is bent on cutting appropriations, the president, himself a man opposed naturally to great display, will not permit any fuss and confusion over the beginning of his term.
It must be remembered that in Washington there are always, in matters of this kind, two conflicting elements: one is the government force, and the other the residents of the city who, represented by hotel men and the business houses, are always keen for some sort of carnival attraction that will bring people to the capital.
A big inauguration with a lot of display means more people in the capital. If Washington wants to pay for this, well and good, but when the government, now staggering under the war burden and the extravagance following, has to foot the bill, President Harding will have the support of the people en masse, in his demand for simplicity. So far the president-elect has shown himself to be possessed of a lot of good sense and more backbone.

It would seem that the Order of Camels which has hailed with so much acclaim by the enemies of the 18th amendment and who were said to be the putative fathers of the candidacy of the late lamented McKenry for the senatorship, is to be investigated by the federal authorities. Many who aid money to the organizers want to know what happened to the coin. The motto of the Order of Camels seems to have been, "There's a Sucker born Every Minute." This, beautifully crocheted in a variegated yarn, should be framed and sent

Making Wood Do More Work
By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—To make two trees grow where one grew before is in general the aim of the United States Forest Service; but that branch of it known as the Forest Products Laboratory, at Madison, Wisconsin, has demonstrated the possibility of doubling the wood supply in effect in another way—by making one tree do the work, or furnish the amount of material, that two trees did before.
The Forest Products Laboratory was started as a branch of the Forest Service working cooperatively with the University of Wisconsin in 1919, with about 80 employees. The number of employees was subsequently increased to about 500, but due to the small appropriations given the laboratory and the rise in salaries and all other costs, it now has little more than half that number of employees. Industrial concerns have learned the value of its work, and are applying to it in considerable numbers for aid, but most of these requests must be refused. No less than 163 such specific requests for assistance from business concerns have been received in the last eight months. Nearly all of the business concerns were willing to pay for the services they requested, but even so it was impossible to render them because there were not facilities enough available.

And this inability to meet the specific requests of business is a small part of the difficulty. No search work which could ultimately save the country millions of dollars has been stopped for lack of funds. In this situation the Forest Products Laboratory appeals to Congress and to the country for better support, and offers facts and figures to prove that it is worth it.
His case is worth considering because it is typical. Many other constructive governmental activities, which pay a large dividend in actual increased production of industry, are being starved out just as the Forest Products Laboratory is, while enormous amounts are asked for Army and Navy support, for the enforcement of prohibition, and for other non-constructive activities.
It is not meant to imply that these are not needed. But appropriations of this sort, and those by which the Congressmen hope to bring money into their own pockets, such as river and harbor appropriations, seem to pass with little criticism, while the much smaller needs of the Government for constructive scientific work are attacked as rank extravagance.
Thus the Forest Products Laboratory, during the entire ten-year period of its existence, has cost the nation but two million dollars. It claims to have repaid this many times over by creating new taxable values. For example, the claims actually paid by the railroads for logs and saws in the last year amount to $100,000,000 annually. The Forest Products Laboratory found that a large part of this loss was due simply to a wrong method of nailing covers on boxes. An improved method of nailing has been worked out by the laboratory and adopted by the National Association of Box Manufacturers and through them by many companies and shippers. It is pointed out that if this method results in a saving of but one per cent, it will be worth a million a year to the nation.

Again, it is a matter of record that during the war experiments conducted at the laboratory in making water-resistant glues and in the use of plywood saved the War Department $6,000,000. Investigations made at the laboratory during the last year in the use of cotton hull fiber and second-hand cotton linters for pulp have made available 200,000 tons of material for this purpose. Plants for making paper pulp out of this new material have been established, with a total capacity of 300 tons a day, and the annual sales value of their product is $15,000,000. The laboratory has made a study of the methods of taking turpentine from pine trees, with the result that turpentine and turpentine products have been increased and the loss of turpentine has been reduced. The average annual saving resulting from this work is $4,000,000 a year. In these and other ways the laboratory claims to have increased production and decreased waste to the amount of at least $30,000,000 a year.
What the laboratory asks is that a small percentage of the wealth which it has created be given back to it for doing new constructive work. The tasks that await it are far larger and more important than those it has done.

The field in which it works in the first place is an enormous one. The lumber and wood-using industries in this country represent an investment of $12,000,000,000, they employ about a million people; they are first among the nation's industries in the number of employees and second in the invested capital and in the annual value of their products. Our civilization is built of wood as much as of steel, and there is no substitute for wood in most of the ways it is used. We face a constant dwindling of the source of supply. The economical use of wood is second in importance among industrial problems only to the establishment of a sound forest policy.

And we waste wood from the time the tree is cut until the finished product is put on the market. Logging operations in the woods are enormously wasteful. Losses in the seasoning of wood in this country are estimated at $50,000,000 annually. The use of preservative processes on ties, poles, posts, pilings, mine timbers, shingles, lumber and other wood exposed to the weather would save the country about $75,000,000 a year. The annual loss from fire in this country is about $200,000,000 a year. A large part of this is in wooden structures, and a large part of it could be avoided by the use of fire-retarding paints and compounds and fire-resisting construction. With the country facing a paper shortage which is rapidly putting books beyond the reach of all but the well-to-do, 55 per cent of the wood fed into the pulp digesters is now lost in the waste sulphite liquors.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GURST.
THE WAY OF OTHERS.
Others have shown the way to beat the birds of the day. This task of mine is nothing new. Others have had this work to do: Others have suffered here and wept. And I must face it to meet the test. And I must face it to meet the test. And I must face it to meet the test.
Time was I thought that I might miss. Might go through life and never know. The weight of care or hurt or woe. And once I fancied when I felt. Across my path disaster's veil. That I was meeting there alone. Such things as no one else had known.
I cried aloud against my pain. But found my whimpering all in vain. And then I thought of you, dear friend. Your lot is what all men must bear. Others have wept the time you smiled. Some grief and have been reconciled; As they have done, so must you do. When care and sorrow come to you.
But that was in the years ago. And since that time I've come to know. That no one on this earth escapes. From trouble and sorrow and woe. No man is singled out to fare. Along life's way exempt from care. And I would see my trials through. As bravely as the others do.

Who's Who Today
RAYMOND POINCARÉ.
RAYMOND POINCARÉ, who filled the comparatively unimportant position of president of France throughout the greater part of the last century, is now a leader of the irreconcilables who have turned strongly against Premier Leger because of his alleged misdeeds in dealing with the Germans. At present M. Poincaré is recognized as the leading aspirant for the premiership in the event of Leger's being forced to quit.
Poincaré was premier at the time of his election to the presidency and was one of the few Frenchmen ever "demoted upward" from the premiership to the presidency. Recently Alexandre Millerand has suffered a similar extinction. As premier Poincaré was a forceful leader; as president he was a dignified figurehead. In his recent utterances, Poincaré has sharply criticized the Leger administration and has urged the French to return to the letter of the peace agreements. His latest expostulations have been directed against the unwillingness of Leger to take immediate action to compel Germany to fulfill her part of the Spa agreement for the disarmament of the citizen's guard and the semi-military police.
Poincaré was born in 1856 of wealthy parents. He attended school at home and in Paris. While doing his military service he was studying for his degree of master of letters in the barracks at Nancy. He received his degree in 1875. Soon after he received his law degree and started to practice. He was a successful lawyer and when three times minister of public instruction. Next year he became minister of finance. After this he rose rapidly and at length became premier of France. He then became president of France and a year ago was elected by the French people. Deschamps' illness forced him to resign and Millerand was named president a few months ago.

Ventures in Common Sense
By ED. HOWE, of Atchison.
I suppose you think it a compliment to have it said: "You're full of sentiment." It isn't. It is equal to saying that a little eloquence will make you believe what is not true.
Those who speak of patriotism, religion, love, women, honor, or the fellowship of man, always exaggerate; literature and oratory cannot speak truthfully of truth itself. In newly every printed page there is an idealism that is mischievous.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Jan. 11, 1881.—The old Police court room in the postoffice building is being fitted into a law office. About 25 music lovers of the city went to Chicago today to hear Sara Bernhardt. Special rates were offered on the railroads. The ice above the dam is being cleared for a trotting machine tomorrow.
THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO
Jan. 11, 1890.—The 11 butchers in the city have agreed, together with the grocers, that they will close their stores at 8 o'clock every night except Saturday. Charles Senator, mayor of the city, has severed his connections there and returned to his home in Rockford.
TWENTY YEARS AGO
Jan. 11, 1901.—The city is considerably filled up with the carriages owned by Dr. Charles Sutherland, of this city, member of the state board of health, that there are six cases of genuine small-pox in the village of Milton and citizens are fearing its spread to this city. Health Officer Dr. George Fifield is taking every precaution to stop it.
TEN YEARS AGO
Jan. 11, 1911.—Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Wright were overcome by gas last night at their home on Milwaukee avenue and a year ago was 85 years of age. He is still in a critical condition today. THE WHYS IN CORYZA
A doctor after me own heart tells this story:
While playing a visit to a patient in X street, I was asked by the next door neighbor to stop as I passed. I found three children chasing about the house with some fever, general malaise and loudly running noses. I informed the mother that they all had coryza.
"Con the danger," she asked with the usual motherly anxiety.
"Well, no, not as a general rule," I responded.
"It's catching," was the mother's next question.
"Very contagious," I assured her, "unless the patient is isolated and completely isolated. Your children have caught it because somebody ignored that little duty."
"Co-ris-shah," she repeated thoughtfully.
"Co-ris-shah," I repeated. "I've never heard of that before, doctor. Is it some new pestilence?"
"Oh, no, madam, it is as old as the knowledge of mankind. I believe it has been given different names in different periods of human evolution. Back in the Neogene period it was called a catarrh. In the middle ages the Philistines re-named it 'coid' in the head."
"Coid in the head? Is that all the children?" the lady demanded.
I saw that it was high time for me to be serious.
"We do not call it that any more, madam," I explained solemnly. "Coryza is the term we use today. Five dollars, please."
The lady paid me with her eyebrows high. Something tells me I'll never be called to that home any more. And yet the fee should have been ten dollars—with war tax additional!
Whatdaya say?

Perhaps the lady would have preferred diphtheria or measles or infantile paralysis or meningitis. Any of these may have all the earmarks of coryza at the onset. What she was mad about was probably the error she thought she had made in summoning the doctor for such a trivial ailment as a common so-called coid in the head—and if that is the case then the children are to be pitied. For an illness purporting to be so very simple coryza is together with its manifold complications and whatdaya say?
Please reprint the formula for an ointment (not the one containing oil of sesame) for the nostrils, which you printed several months ago. A girl in our office found it relieved her of a cold after years of it, and I have it too. (M. T. E.)

HOROSCOPE
TUESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1921.
Astrologers read this an uncertain day for Nephritis and Mars are adverse while Venus and the Sun are in benefic aspect.
It is a day that should offer exceptional opportunities to women. They should be very cautious in important decisions.
There is a promising sign for all who seek employment or decide their sort of profession. It is held that men in places of power are inclined to be helpful during this configuration.
Women who desire to obtain positions to secure the support of persons of influence should do all possible under this rule of the stars.
An official appointment of great honor will be given to a woman who will earn fame through it.
During the next four years there will be many persons who will prove that they have extraordinary finesse for great responsibilities, the seers prophesy.
Gossip is in an aspect believed to menace the reputations of prominent persons, both men and women. Gossip that is cruel and without foundation will be freely circulated.
Although the potency of thought has been recognized to a certain extent, astrologers declare that it will be many years before the crime of slander is sufficiently punished.
Foreign relations are to be on the whole satisfactory in the next few weeks. It is prognosticated, although there will be many newspaper reports to the contrary.
Vanity will continue to dominate many women, even though they are concerned with national affairs, if the stars are to be believed.
Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an active, successful year, but they may be too much inclined to indulge in amusement. The young will court and marry.
Children born on this day may be individual to the point of eccentricity, but they will probably be very successful in whatever profession or business they happen to choose.

COOLIDGE WAS NOT MILKING THAT COW AFTER ALL, HE SAYS
Springfield, Mass.—Vice president-elect Coolidge can milk a cow, but he did not milk the one he was represented as milking in a photograph taken last July while he was on a vacation at his father's farm in Plymouth, Vt., after his nomination at Chicago. However, it was the cow's fault and not the governor's.
In explaining the misrepresentation to Horace A. Moses, president of the Hampden County improvement league, who was his host recently, Governor Coolidge said that that cow was a creature of temperament and insisted on being milked indoors. The picture released to the press last summer showed the candidate in the accepted position for milking, and apparently getting results.
"You see," he said, "she had always been accustomed to being milked indoors and when I approached her with a pail and milking stool she quieted naturally and in accordance with long established precedent, started for the barn door."
It took several minutes of coaxing before the cow would so far depart from the law and order of her ways as to stand in the barnyard while the governor made a pretence of milking her. To really do so out-of-doors was quite out of the question, he declared.
EGGS WORTH MORE THAN CORN.
A Shawnee county farmer took a load of corn to market this week, fine, yellow, bottom-ripped Kansas corn, which he had just paid a neighbor's son ten cents a bushel for husking. His wife picked out a few hens that were not doing their duty as layers and included with them a crate of 30 dozen eggs for him to take along for breakfast. He took the poultry aboard, reluctantly, not wishing to be bothered with small stuff. When he got to town he let the chickens wait until he unloaded the corn at the elevator, where he received an even $18 for the 40 bushels. Then he went to the store with the small stuff. For the hens he got $5.50. The eggs, 30 dozen at 70 cents, brought $21. Total $27.80, or $13.90 more than he received for a whole wagon load of A-1 corn.—Capers Weekly.

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER XII
SOMETHING TROUBLES ME
It was really a most remarkable evening. It was not the novelty of the surroundings, Violet and I had frequently taken dinner at these little Village restaurants, we knew them very well by now—we even knew some of their regular patrons. But the part of the town, as every one knows, is indeed a village, with all the sociability and draw-backs of the country village. Each restaurant had its regular circle of diners who came right after night and sat over the coffee and cigarettes, talking new art, new music, politics, socialism, syndicalism, communism, single tax and many other theories, and then quite over our poor heads.

The girls often wore their hair short in a way that fascinated Violet, and the men always wore tortoise shell pince-nez, which had the same familiarity that goes with the small town, too; they came to our table and introduced themselves, and most of them tried hard to know Violet. Of course, Violet knew everyone who came to Helen's.

So it was not the places that made the evening remarkable. It was the man, this new friend of Bud's, Francis Meade. He was a stock broker, one of two members of a fairly large firm on Wall Street. He was five foot six, looking—yet not handsome, for his features were far from perfect. He was perhaps 40, his hair had quite a little gray in it, he had a stern, looking profile, but the nicest and most humorous full face. He had a stubborn jaw, but a soft, sweet looking smile—a smile that transformed his whole face. Later in the evening, his partner, John Judson, joined us, and finally we all went over to our own little flat, where Violet and I made coffee and the two men and the boy sat and smoked and talked. Mr. Meade seemed especially attracted to Violet. And the girl blossomed out delightfully with him, chattering about her impressions of the city when she first came to it. She even told some of our first funny adventures, though I blushed a little and felt somewhat ill at ease.

"Aunt Edith and I used to go for a walk, and write down the names of all the new streets we came to, and what they looked like. Then we came back the same way, following our directions so we wouldn't be lost. Aunt Edith used to be awfully afraid to ask her way of a policeman."

"She had a bad conscience, maybe," suggested one of the men.

"Maybe, but I don't think so," Violet smiled. "She was just afraid because they were strange men and she hadn't been properly introduced to them. We never crossed a street alone for weeks because of the cars."

"Talking care of oneself in a traffic jam is a matter of instinct. Perhaps your aunt hadn't the city instinct," Mr. Judson remarked.

"I think she has the home-making instinct, here," Mr. Meade said by way of answer, getting up and walking about the room. "I haven't been in a place for years that made me feel so thoroughly at home. This place is so calm and refreshing."

He turned, with that delightful smile of his. Something warm and lovely ran through me, and through every vein in my body and made me feel strange, and delightful.

It was my first companion—the first bit of gallantry from a man since the days so long ago when Mark paid me awkward little compliments.

I wanted to say something in return—but I couldn't. I knew well enough what it was—I wanted to say—

"Then please come and be at home here often, if you like it."

But some curious awkwardness clutched at me, I could not get the words out. It was Violet who rescued the situation by turning and saying with all the natural grace she possessed:

"Then I hope we'll see you again some time."

After the men had gone, with Bud to guide them out of the Village—since all the streets were now to them—I sat for a long time thinking over the evening. Violet, being young and healthy and tired, went to bed and promptly fell asleep. But I could not, this evening.

Why had I not been able to say the things I wanted? I never was at a loss for words at home. I was always a rather silent person; that was because Esther despised my opinions, and because she fairly sat upon me conversationally. She suppressed me by her own weight, her sisterly physical bulk, as well as by the force of her character.

But I was free of Esther now, free until we returned to Helen's flat for the summer vacation. Why was I not able, suddenly, to say what I wanted? What queer inhibition took possession of me?

Finally I thought it was because Mr. Meade seemed so well read, so widely traveled, because he seemed to know so much and to have thought so much on all important subjects. Things came up during the evening of which I had no comprehension. Topics were discussed that were quite beyond me—yet there was no hint of superiority in Mr. Meade's manner. He was too quiet, too courteous, too gentle in personality for that.

What a remarkable man he was! He was the first I ever met that really impressed me. Suddenly I became conscious of my own vast ignorance.

FIRST HATS SHOWN FOR SOUTHERN WEAR

By ELOISE
Milady's handbags which will be shipped southward soon are to carry some very lovely creations by all indications shown in the advance displays. Many merchants are already fitting their windows with alluring millinery in glorious new colorings. The shapes, so far, are not strikingly novel, but the colors are quite smart and new and make every woman long for a color in the line of palm trees and oranges.

Here are two models picked at random from the collection of one of the fashionable New York milliners and both of them show the lines prevailing in the modes for the southern winter season. The hat above is a pretty sportsy model. The top is of stitched bay's straw, but the facing is a fine ribbon. Silver straps decorate the crown and embroidered foliage in yara forms a pretty touch. The crown is soft and the brim may be worn any number of ways.

The other hat is made of a novel basket weave straw in red and white. It is faced with white silk and features an unusual ribbon trim over the crown. Streamers of red and white silk ribbon form the crown decoration and fall over the brim in tasseled fashion.

Varsity Students Prepare For Annual Junior Prom
Madison.—The annual Junior Promenade, the great social event of Wisconsin, has been put under way by committees working on arrangements. The ticket sale has opened, and fraternities are preparing for their post-prom formal parties. Permission will be asked of the legislature to hold the formal dance in the Capitol building as in former years. Governor Blaine has given his consent. It is planned to make the affair more elaborate than in former years, with an expected attendance of 1,500 couples.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
(Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.)

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please print a skin whitener. H. J. K. A teaspoon of the extract of benzoin to an ounce of rosewater forms a well-known lotion, which is excellent for whitening the skin.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About three months ago I was introduced to a young man who is very good looking and has a prosperous business. I am private secretary to one of his business friends, who introduced us. Since that time I have gone with this young man almost every night, but have no intention whatever of marrying him and neither do I think he has any intention of marrying me. What we are out for is just a good time. The other day while out to lunch with said young man, when passing a ladies' ready-to-wear store I casually remarked upon the beauty of an expensive fur coat in the window, never thinking that he was listening to me. When yesterday afternoon I reached my apartment, I found a large package awaiting me, and when opened, low and behold, there was the same coat that I saw in the window.

Should I keep the coat or return it? I am sure he would be angry should I return it, but I don't much like to keep it.

PUZZLED PEGGY.

Return the coat. "The man will respect you more and probably like you better if you refuse to take it. He knows, without a doubt, that he should not ask you to accept a gift of so much value."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young fellow 18 years of age and am very fond of a girl of the same age. I have taken her a great many places and had many good times, but lately I found out she had been corresponding with another fellow out of town. He was in town a few days ago and he came to see her. Since then she doesn't seem the same toward me. There is another girl who has been seeing me every day and I have walked home with her once or twice and she seems quite affectionate and has invited me to call on her some time.

Which would be the better, to let the first girl alone and go with the second one, or not? I really think I like the first one best.

PUZZLED.

It is only natural that the girl should have other friends beside you. A little jealousy has crept into your heart in regard to the young man from out of town. Probably the girl feels the same as ever toward you, but you feel hurt and in reality have changed toward her. Try to forget about the young man from out of town, and do not refer to him or that you have noticed a change in her conduct toward you.

I would advise you to remain true to the first girl. From what you have said I should imagine that I would like her better, too.

"Broken-Hearted Jane": Do not ask the young man for an explanation. It is evident that he has tired of your company and finds the other girl more to his liking at present. You might just as well face the truth and adjust yourself to it. Tell your parents that you do not believe he is coming back.

In regard to the photographs he has of you, I would advise you to stay nothing and let him keep them. It is unwise for a girl to give away pictures of herself so promiscuously, because nine times out of ten she regrets it later.

Show a brave heart, dear girl, and you can learn to forget the young man. Remember that every girl has to go through the same suffering you are experiencing now. Time will teach you to forget and find new interests.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

Dear Joe:

Well Joe I see the price of diamonds is going down. It's a good thing I'm not selling in diamonds, isn't it Joe, with the prices falling continuously and the diamonds remaining stationary and staring me in the face with insulting mockery. At the same time Joe I wouldn't in the slightest degree object to having one diamond, namely the one you've been promising me ever since we've been married. Not that I'm dragging in the general subject of diamonds, for to knock you for one you now have a small stone little did I think it would be so small I'd never see it.

The baby has another sound already. Namely ah. That makes goo and ah up to the present. I think it's real unnatural in you Joe not to consider that his various sounds are advance indications of future speech, because I think that they at least indicate that he realizes he's a member of the English language.

The beauty of it is Joe that the little angel knows the distinction between goo and ah and never says one when he means the other or vice versa. I can tell that by his expression at the time. I called the ice man in this morning to hear the baby go through his goos and ahs. I explained to him just what the little angel was striving to say, but the ice man just frowned in a deprecating manner and went right on again. He's had several children of his own and I suppose he's naturally jocular.

The baby didn't gain any weight last week, but personally I could very well afford to give him a little of the excess profits of my own avoirdupois, having put on several more ounces of them the past few days. Sometimes I don't think I'll ever be thin again, or ever merely midway plump. Your loving

TESSIE.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE.

To My Correspondents
This is a plan for help. Won't you, my Reader-friends, help me to help you all I can? So many of my correspondents are forgetting the rules of the column that I am having to disappoint many of them. I am afraid, by not answering their inquiries.

A stamped envelope, addressed to yourself, must be enclosed with your inquiry if you wish a personal reply. Several correspondents recently have sent a loose stamp and asked for a personal reply, but have signed their letter only with initials or a non-descript name. I could not answer them, and I fear they are thinking I don't take much interest in the problems my Reader-friends bring me. But I do—so please don't forget the address and the stamp!

And please allow two weeks, or three if possible, for my answer. By the time your letter reaches the newspaper and is forwarded to me, and then waits its turn with the many others there are each day, and then my answer gets back to you, it is a matter of a fortnight the very best I can do. So please don't give up hope of a reply to your letter too soon!

Because the space in our column is so limited, and because very personal problems are not of interest to all our readers, I can answer in the column-only questions of a general nature. For other questions you must send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Remember, I am willing here to help you in any way I can, and I am interested in whatever problems you bring to me. Just try asking me and see.

A Related Reply
E. H. S.—The gold pencil would have been very nice indeed, but your letter did not reach me in time for an answer through the column before Christmas. Send a stamped, addressed envelope next time you want a prompt reply, because answers that are printed in this column have to wait their turn and it takes a long time to work them in because there are so many. Sorry.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in those columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the questions. —The Editor.

The Milwaukee Automobile Show

MILWAUKEE AUTO SHOW

Fully 1800 automotive dealers are expected in Milwaukee January 19 and 20 to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Automotive Dealers association, which will be an increase of more than 200 over last year, according to T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee, president.

While the convention sessions will cover a period of only two days, they will be jammed full of business, according to Mr. McMillan and this will include the further development of plans to have a uniform system of open highways throughout the state during the winter months. At the present time about seventeen committees have an organized program of road work during the winter months. It is the purpose of the state dealers to adopt some sort of plan to make this idea a general one in the state.

Several important pieces of prospective legislation also will be considered by the dealers. One of especial importance is that pertaining to the heavy losses sustained each year by automobile owners through the pernicious activities of motor car thieves. It is suggested that drastic action will be suggested to curb this growing menace and to afford owners of automobiles greater protection.

While in Milwaukee the dealers will have an opportunity to attend the annual show of the Milwaukee Automotive Dealers at the Auditorium, January 17 to 23. About 150 exhibitors have taken space in the Auditorium for the show, which will be the biggest in the twelve years history of the association.

Prominent dealers in the state who are directors of the state association and are working to make the convention a success are: K. C. Tank, Rhinelander; C. R. Wood, Eau Claire; C. W. Collier, Green Bay; K. J. Roams, Wausau; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; C. R. Walton, Madison; A. F. Reynolds and two children, Chicago, spent last week at their parents' home. Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, F. Whitcomb and Mrs. Emily Smiley moved to Brodhead last Saturday to attend the funeral of the late Almina Dodge. Mrs. Frank Stephenson is in Jersey hospital, Janesville, for an operation. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stephenson, Brodhead, called on James Stephenson last Sunday. More than

Automobiles and Legislation

When the annual convention of the Wisconsin Automotive Dealers association is held in Milwaukee, January 19 and 20, one of the busiest departments of the organization will be the members of the legislative committee.

This committee consists of one auto dealer from every county in the state. The members have already outlined a tentative program of recommendations to present to the convention for endorsement before they take the various subjects up with the representatives from the respective districts in the senate and assembly at Madison. Several important pieces of legislation affecting the safety first movement and laws relating to the curbing of automobile thievery, which has been in the ascendancy among some of the activities to which the state dealers are directing their attention.

100 attended the supper given in the Baptist church last Thursday evening. The poultry show will be held in the Albany opera house Jan. 11, 12 and 13. John Wood, who spent the holidays with his parents here, returned to his home in Detroit. Mrs. Carrie Putnam visited Mrs. Elizabeth Donner-Jamb in Monroe last week. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Littel and Charles Francis and family were in Chicago, visiting the former's son, who is leading man in the play, "Irene."

KEEPING ROADS OPEN

Keeping the roads open in winter will be one of the important subjects discussed at the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Automotive Dealers in Milwaukee January 19 and 20.

Seventeen counties in the state have at the present time an organized plan for making the highways travelable even under the most adverse conditions, with particular reference to heavy snowfalls, which invariably make trouble for the farmer, who has long since recognized the value of a motor car in expediting his city trips and keeping him in closer contact with the larger commercial centers. It is the purpose of the committee in charge of the program to give this subject careful and earnest consideration with a view to making it a uniform action on the part of auto dealers throughout the state during the winter months.

T. S. McMillan, Milwaukee, president of the state association is looking forward to a most successful convention. He is being assisted by C. W. Collier, Green Bay, vice-president; G. R. Wood, Eau Claire, treasurer; and Bart J. Ruddle, Milwaukee, secretary.

Leaders in the movement to keep the roads open in winter and in promoting the proposition of better highways in general all the year round are: Peter Ring, Kenosha; A. F. Reynolds, Sheboygan; C. R. Walton, Madison; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; K. J. Roams, Wausau; P. C. Tank, Rhinelander.

200 TO APPEAR IN HOME TALENT SHOW

Probably no recent home talent production has had assembled such talent as will take part in "Oh, Oh, Oh," which will make its opening appearance in this city Tuesday evening, Jan. 18 at the Apollo theater under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

Mrs. Frank Murlough, a vocalist, who has had professional experience in concert and dramatic work, is to play the leading female role, that of Cinderella Van Alstyne, a character of the "Ziegfeld Follies." She is given many opportunities of displaying her voice as she sings solos throughout the play. Blanche Blonid, "Cinderella" is to be played by Miss Gabriel Loranger. Miss Loranger, a newcomer to the city, has already distinguished herself as a soloist. Supporting Miss Blonid as her protectors are the "Ziegfeld Follies" of the family, including Miss Ryan, William Kober and Darrell Sullivan.

SOUTHWEST LIMA

(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Southwest Lima—Mrs. William Truman entertained the women's circle at her home Tuesday afternoon. Master Russell House has returned to Whitewater after spending part of his holiday vacation at the O. W. Bennett home. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braun entertained a number of neighbors at their home Saturday evening. Mrs. Fred Sellnow was a recent visitor in Eagle. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Berg have returned from their trip with Chicago friends. Mrs. William Hookstad and daughter were recent Whitewater callers.

Oconto—Spring, Oconto county, is to have a new state bank. The Oconto Spring bank recently changed hands and all the old officers have resigned, with the exception of W. J. Ajelke, the cashier. All stock owned by the old bank officials has been sold because of friction between the directors regarding the management.

Forecasts Your Prosperity—Share It

Ten Billion Dollars' Worth of Work To Be Done

Money, materials, and men are now ready to start work that has been neglected for three years.

The railroads must spend a billion dollars for repairs and improvements.

Another half-billion dollars must go into highway work.

Every locality is short of school buildings, houses, etc.

One city alone has sixteen million dollars available for sewers and water mains.

Hotels are needed everywhere.

Prices have been so high—men have been so busy at other things and money was so engaged in other enterprises that public work has not kept pace with our needs.

Now prices are down—workmen are eager for the jobs. Money seeks investment in such directions.

What Charles M. Schwab Says About It

"Never in our lifetime," says he, "have the shelves of the world been so bare. And I want to go on record as saying nothing could be healthier for American business than the very condition through which we are passing.

"It merely means that America has closed up its war factory and is jiggling up for peace production!"

Such Periods Do Not Last Long

Remember the things said about hard times when war ended.

Some predicted it would take two years to demobilize four million soldiers, for they said without jobs for the released men all activity must stop.

And Merchants did stop buying. Lower prices were prophesied. Factories felt it and slowed down.

But within six months we were at full production in all lines without enough workers to meet the needs.

The National Automobile Shows were held in January and February, 1919, just at the time when the most dire predictions were being made and when soldiers were coming home by the tens of thousands.

Our industry revealed its faith then.

We feel and show greater confidence now that prosperity for you and all of us is fast returning.

Transportation More Important Now

Production was the demand then.

Now distribution is of first importance. And economical distribution is impossible without the automobile.

Its influence touches every activity.

It extends to every cross-roads. Without it city transportation lines would break down under their increased burdens. The farmer would be unable to do his work or to deliver his goods to market.

Railroad lines would be deprived of the feeders that bring goods to them over every highway. Living costs would rise and land values would fall.

Requires a Million Automobiles For Replacements Alone

Can you imagine this city without automobiles?

Will anyone who has ever owned an automobile long endure without one?

Merely to maintain the present number means a replacement of a million cars a year.

We are wearing out clothes and shoes faster than such articles are now produced.

A hundred million people must be fed and clothed and housed. Children are outgrowing their things.

Every article that people use will be wanted and people will find ways of getting them once that need is manifested.

We do not beat the drum of hollow optimism.

It is real. The Milwaukee Automobile Show and the Automobile Shows to be held in hundreds of other cities prove our faith.

Go to the Milwaukee Automobile Show, January 17 to 23, inclusive, if you would share our confidence.

Green Bay—(From J. H. MacIntyre, assistant superintendent of schools, who has thrown a bomb shell into the camp of Green Bay teachers. Speaking before a teachers' conference here, he demanded that more interest be shown in education work and that those "who thought more of a pay day than their daily work" to resign. A move has been launched to elect Green Bay's system of education and according to Mr. MacIntyre, it is going to start with the teacher.

Blanchardville—Two ice houses, two barns and a garage known as the Hotel Burn, in the heart of the town of Blanchardville, were destroyed by a fire of mysterious origin early Saturday morning. The damage is estimated at $5,000. Only the help summoned from this town and Mineral Point saved the entire town from being leveled.

Racine—Agreeing to accept a wage reduction of 20 per cent and an increased labor day of one hour, 150 employees of the Alshuler Manufacturing company notified the company that they would not permit an open shop and as a result a strike is on. The factory, which manufactures shirts and overalls, was to resume operations Monday morning after a several weeks' close down, but the strike being called may prevent this and the garment workers' union has ordered a picketing of the plant.

Chippewa Falls—Garbed in nightgowns, pajamas, kimonos, bathrobes and every manner and kind of costume, every guest in the Anderson hotel here, left his or her room and pronounced through the chimes of the office, when the cry, "Robbers, robbers," echoed through the hall.

ways shortly after 1 o'clock. Upon their arrival at the office they were informed by Alfred Anderson, night clerk that he had been held up by a masked bandit and robbed of $50 at the point of a gun.

Rueland—District Attorney Beck, informed of conditions existing in a small house on Eighth street, ordered the arrest of Mrs. Alice Nelson, and her daughter, Eva Johnson, 16 years old. Then came the arrest of Benjamin Sykes, a member of the local fire department, whose wife and child are now at Antigo, Wis. He and the girl are accused of a serious statutory offense, while the mother is charged with aiding in the delinquency of her daughter.

Green Bay—Local liquor men caught in the clutches of the law, will fight their indictments to the limit. Joseph Martin, national democratic committeeman for Wisconsin, has been charged to defend the indicted liquor men and there is plenty of money available to finance their defense.

Merrill—Hurry Malzer and Albert Lawrence, both 14, were brought here by Milwaukee railroad officials and arraigned in court for burglary. The boys were caught in a box car at La Crosse, Wis., on the burglary of a car. They said they were enroute to Texas and as a result a strike is on. The factory, which manufactures shirts and overalls, was to resume operations Monday morning after a several weeks' close down, but the strike being called may prevent this and the garment workers' union has ordered a picketing of the plant.
